Preface

This completely revised and redesigned Character Workbook is meant to accompany the Fourth Edition of Integrated Chinese (IC). It has been about twenty years since the IC series came into existence in 1997. During these years, amid all the historical changes that have taken place in China and the rest of the world, the demand for Chinese language teaching/learning materials has grown dramatically. We are greatly encouraged by the fact that IC not only has been a widely used textbook at the college level all over the United States and beyond, but also has become increasingly popular for advanced language students in high schools. Based on user feedback, we have made numerous changes so that the Character Workbook can become an even more useful tool for students of Chinese.

Stressing the importance of learning a new character by its components

Learning a new character becomes much easier if the student can identify its components. The student should learn how to write the forty radicals at the beginning of the Volume 1 Character Workbook in the correct stroke order first, because these forty radicals will appear repeatedly in other characters later. If a new character contains a component already familiar to the student, the stroke order of that component will not be introduced again. However, we will show the stroke order of all new components as they appear when we introduce new characters. For example, when we introduce the character 孩 (hái) (child) in Lesson 2, Volume 1, we do not show the stroke order for the radical 子 (zǐ) (child) because 子 already appeared in the radical section. Therefore, we only display the stroke order for the other component 亥 (hài) (the last of the Twelve Earthly Branches). For the same reason, when 亥 appears in the new character 刻 (kè) (quarter of an hour) in Lesson 3, Volume 1, its stroke order is not displayed. When the student learns a new character, he or she can easily tell if a component in the character has appeared in previous lessons. If the stroke order for that component is not displayed, it means that the component is not new. The student should try to recall where he or she has seen it before. By doing so, the student can connect new characters with old ones and build up a character bank. We believe that learning by association will help the student memorize characters more effectively.

Main features of the new Character Workbook

a. Both simplified and traditional characters are introduced
If a character appears in both simplified and traditional form, we show both to accommodate different learner needs. In this volume, to reflect the predominance of simplified characters in Chinese language instruction, we have listed simplified characters first.

b. Pinyin and English definition are clearly noted
We have moved the pinyin and the English definition above each character for easy recognition and review.

c. Radicals are highlighted
The radical of each character is highlighted. Knowing what radical group a character belongs to is essential when looking up that character in a traditional dictionary in which the characters are arranged according to their radicals. To a certain extent, radicals can also help the student decipher the meaning of a character. For example, characters containing the radical 贝 / 貝 (bèi) (shell), such as 贵 / 貴 (guì) (expensive), and 货 / 貨 (huò) (merchandise), are often associated with money or value. The student can group the characters sharing the same radical together and learn them by association.

d. Stroke order is prominently displayed
Another important feature is the numbering of each stroke in the order of its appearance. Each number is marked at the beginning of that particular stroke. We firmly believe that it is essential to write a character in the correct stroke order, and to know where each stroke begins and ends. To display the stroke order more prominently, we have moved the step-by-step character writing demonstration next to the main characters.

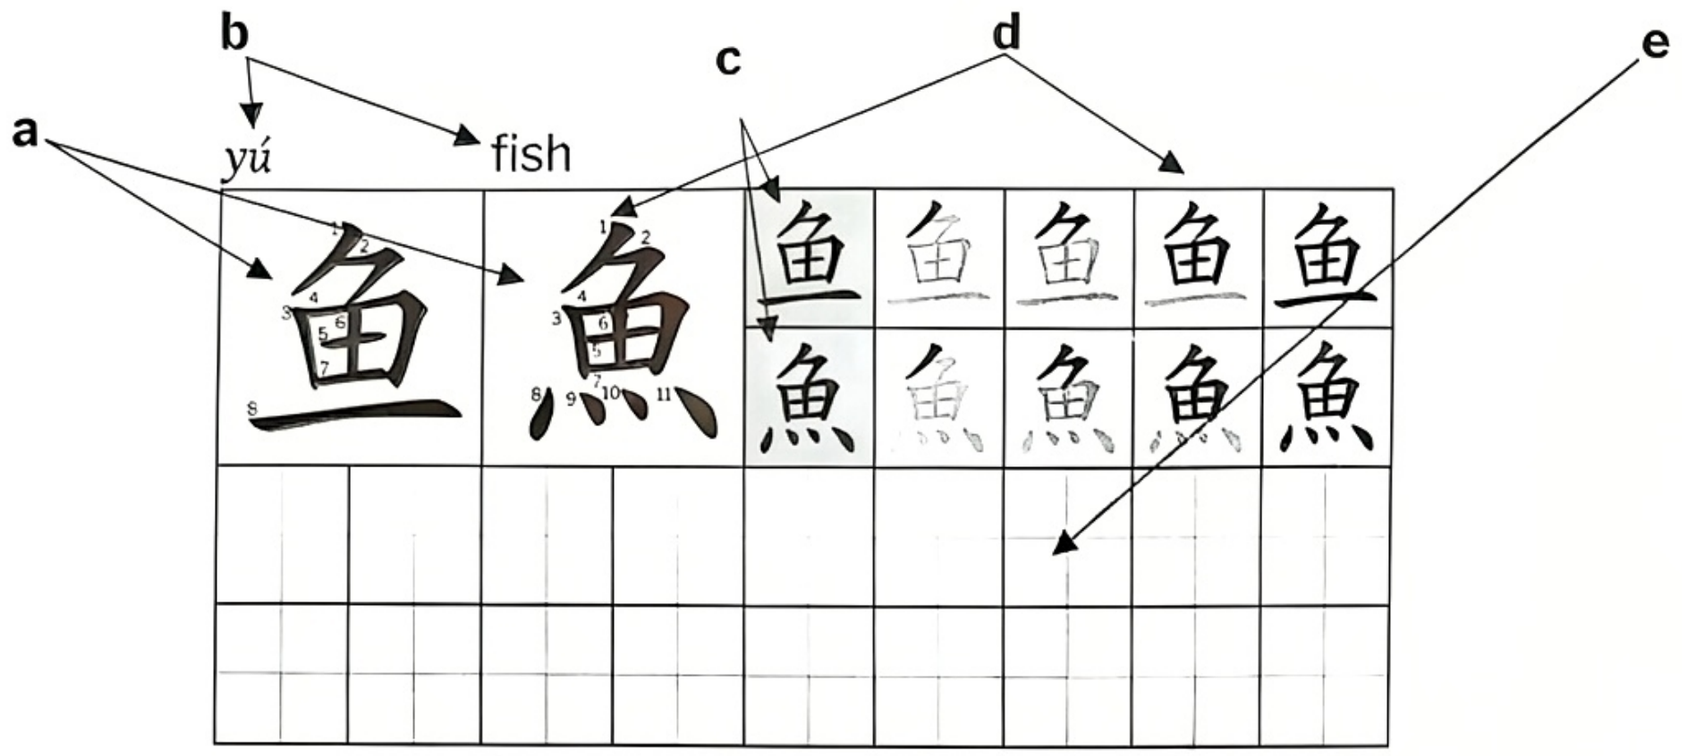
e. "Training wheels" are provided
We also provide grids with fine shaded lines inside to help the student better envision and balance their characters when practicing.



Other changes

In response to user feedback, we have updated the traditional characters to ensure they match the standard set currently used in Taiwan. For reference, we have consulted the Taiwan Ministry of Education's Revised Chinese Dictionary. This change has been overseen by the editors.

In order to focus on character recognition and acquisition, we decided not to include elements having to do with phonetic identification and phrase recognition.

To help the student look up characters more easily, we decided to limit the indices to two: one arranged alphabetically by pinyin and the other by lesson. Additional appendices that are not directly linked to the practice of writing characters, such as the English-Chinese glossary, are available in the Textbook.

The formation of the radicals in this book is based on the Modern Chinese Dictionary (现代汉语词典/現代漢語詞典) published by the Commercial Press (商务印书馆/商務印書館). A total of 201 radicals appear in that dictionary, and in some cases the same character is listed under more than one radical. For the characters in this book that fall in that category, we provide two radicals in order to facilitate students' dictionary searches. The two radicals are presented in order from top to bottom (e.g., 名: 夕, 口), left to right (e.g., 功: 工, 力), and large to small (e.g., 章: 音, 立; 麻: 麻, 广).

The changes that we made in the new version reflect the collective wishes of the users. We would like to take this opportunity to thank those who gave us feedback on how to improve the Character Workbook. We would like to acknowledge in particular Professor Hu Shuangbao of Peking University and Professor Shi Dingguo of Beijing Language and Culture University, both of whom read the entire manuscript and offered invaluable comments and suggestions for revision.

Note: Prefaces to the previous editions of IC are available at cheng-tsui.com.

Character Workbook

4th Edition

Integrated Chinese is an acclaimed Mandarin Chinese language course that delivers a cohesive system of print and digital resources for highly effective teaching and learning. First published in 1997 and now in its 4th Edition, it has become the leading Chinese language textbook series in the United States and beyond.

This time-tested series has been fully revised to align with the needs of today's learners:

- Both traditional and simplified characters included on the same page
- Characters are listed in the order they appear in the Textbook
- Step-by-step, clear stroke order is displayed
- Practice squares include grid lines to help students balance characters correctly
- Pinyin pronunciation and English definitions are clearly indicated for each character
- Common radicals are introduced to build familiarity and recognition
- Radicals in each character are highlighted
- Indexes are arranged alphabetically and by lesson

ALSO AVAILABLE IN THE SERIES
